Get active in your own physical health care

Your physical health significantly affects your mental health. Consumers of mental health services can support their own road to recovery by:

- Having a regular local GP
- Getting a regular physical examination
- Asking their mental health service for help in making or attending physical health appointments
- Giving consent for their GP and the mental health service to share information about their physical health

Linking physical and mental health care... it makes sense