A close contact is someone who has been near a person with COVID-19.

You will know you are a close contact if you have been contacted by NSW Health or if you have been to a close contact venue.

These venues are on the NSW Government website: www.nsw.gov.au/COVID-19

If you are a close contact, you must get tested immediately and isolate for 14 days even if you get a negative result.

Get tested again on day 7 and day 12. You must stay in isolation until you complete the full 14 days even if you get a negative result.

You must also tell your household members and anyone else you have spent time in the last 3 days, that you are a close contact. They must then immediately get tested and isolate until both you, and they have received a negative test result. The ‘close contact’ is the only person required to isolate for full 14 days.
