The Western Surgical Training Network is widely recognised as a quality training network. Based in Westmead Hospital, the largest hospital in NSW, our network provides rotations in most major surgical subspecialties spread mostly within Westmead plus 1 x rotation per term in Auburn, Blacktown, Mt Druitt, The Children's Hospital Westmead and our rural rotation at Broken Hill

Our network is most famous for the quality of surgical training due to the perfect combination of high patient loads as well as quality formal teaching sessions. With a rapidly rising population in its catchment, Westmead Hospital boasts some of the busiest surgical units in the country. This provides maximum exposure and experience for our trainees.

More information for our Network can be found on our website
