NSW Health
Nursing and Midwifery Office

Careers in nursing and midwifery management

Realise your leadership potential

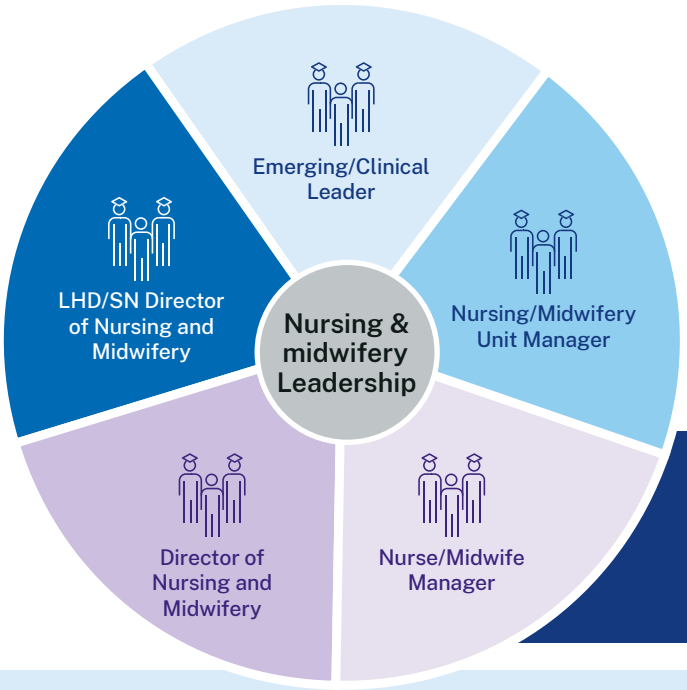
Leadership is a key capability for nurses and midwives at every level, and an essential component of delivering exceptional care, to every person, every time. We are committed to supporting nurses and midwives to realise and reach their full leadership potential at every career stage.

Nursing and Midwifery Leadership

Lead excellent care, build positive workplace cultures and grow your career with leadership programs.

Scholarships

Underpin your leadership and progress your career with a postgraduate leadership qualification. Funded scholarships at Graduate Certificate, Diploma and Masters level are available.



Leadership resources

iLead, In the Lead and Take the Lead use a contemporary approach to leadership development, strengthening leadership capability at all levels.

Emerging/ Clinical Leader	The emerging/clinical Leader is a nurse or midwife who demonstrates Leadership potential at any stage of their career. Interest in leadership development is not limited to those seeking management roles.
Nursing/ Midwifery Unit Manager	The N/MUM plays a pivotal role in leading the delivery of safe and effective care, as well as managing and leading human and material resources in the ward or unit.
Nurse/ Midwife Manager	The Nurse/Midwife Manager role is important to the effective operation of the health system. These managers are required to demonstrate a range of management and leadership skills appropriate to their level and the facility's needs.
Director of Nursing and Midwifery	The Director of Nursing and Midwifery delivers strategic and operational leadership to support the effective management of a comprehensive range of hospital or facility services.
LHD/SN Director of Nursing and Midwifery	The Executive Director provides leadership to the nursing and midwifery professions across the LHD and contributes significantly to the development and oversight of local strategic and operational plans, policy, business strategies, clinical services strategies, and relationships.

Where can I find more information?

Scan the QR code to find out more.

The team enriching health in millions of ways every day

October 2026 © NSW Health. SHPN (NAMO) 260565.