

Respecting the Difference

This artwork represents the holistic approach to creating better health outcomes for Aboriginal people. The outer circle symbolises Mother Earth, the binding of the land to health and the nourishment of the spirit through this connection.

The second blue circle represents fresh water - the cleansing qualities it brings to our lives, and a source of life and food replenishment.

The weaving shape over the fresh water represents salt water and the people who come from saltwater areas.

The next circle represents both Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal community members who will work together to achieve better health outcomes and support the individual to overcome fear of the unknown, especially in relation to non-Aboriginal health methods.
