

Asthma and COVID-19

(coronavirus)

The most important thing you can do if you have asthma is to follow your care plan and attend regular appointments with your health management team. Here are some ways to keep yourself healthy.

Look after your asthma health

Make sure you have an up-to-date written Asthma Action Plan.

If you don't have an Asthma Action Plan phone your GP or specialist as soon as possible to make one.

Take your medications as prescribed by your doctor.

A blue and grey puffer contains 200 doses of medication.

Make sure you have at least 30 days of prescription medicines. There is no need to buy more.

Use your own inhaler and do not share with anyone else, including family members.

Do not use a nebuliser to inhale your medicines unless unavoidable.

If you need to go to hospital, take your medications and spacer with you.

Make sure all your vaccinations are up to date.

Be active. Reduce long periods of sitting. Go up and down stairs as much as you can and use household work such as gardening and cleaning to be more physically active.

If you live alone, make arrangements to have a family member, friend or neighbour to be available when you need help.

Sources include: Asthma Australia and National Asthma Council Australia

Maridulu Budyari Gumal

Working together for good health and wellbeing

Keep safe from COVID-19

(coronavirus)

Wash your hands regularly with soap and water for at least 20 seconds or use a hand sanitiser.

Cough or sneeze into your elbow or a tissue. Throw the tissue away immediately.

Follow the latest regulations for your state.

If you are 70 years or older you should stay at home as much as possible.

Stay more than 1.5 metres away from other people at all times, even when visiting others.

If you are sick stay at home.

If you have symptoms such as cough, sore/scratchy throat, shortness of breath or fever you should be tested for COVID-19. Call your GP or visit a public COVID-19 testing clinic.

If you have serious symptoms such as difficulty breathing, call 000 for an ambulance.

New telehealth medical services:

To reduce the spread of COVID-19, many doctors now provide bulk billed telehealth appointments (video or telephone). Call your doctor's office to find out about your medical appointment options.

Keep up to date with the Australian Government's response to COVID-19

For more information call the National Coronavirus Health Information Line on 1800 020 080.

For a free telephone interpreter ring 131 450, say the language you need. Ask the interpreter to connect you to the Coronavirus Health Information line.

Maridulu Budyari Gumat

Working together for good health and wellbeing

July, 2020

